

IT'S TIME FOR TELEMEDICINE.

Maintaining the RPM Relationship

The use of remote patient monitoring dramatically improves communication between the care team and patient. Patients and providers alike feel empowered by the data exchange. These have been shown across multiple diseases to improve outcome and decrease costs.

Multimedia engagement with the patient through best practice guidelines and educational videos further supports the value of the data exchange in remote monitoring.

Maintain regular contact with your patients by video, call and text. This keeps the patient engaged while improving results and staying compliant with the CPT 99457 requirement of 20 minutes of monitoring time.

Cura's RPM comes with complimentary use of the telemedicine platform. Using face to face videoconferencing not only encourages people to better engage with their health, it also strengthens trust of the relationship.
